City of Beaumont Launches New Economic Development Website

Beaumont, CA—The City of Beaumont launched its new cutting-edge Economic Development website to boost economic growth, showcasing the vibrant economic opportunities available within our city.

Created by the Department of Economic Development, <https://beaumontcabusiness.gov/> hosts information for business owners looking to relocate or expand their operations into the City of Beaumont, site locations to help choose a strategic location, or residents wanting to learn about community and business demographics. As a hub of information for innovation, collaboration, and growth, the new website aims to elevate the community.

Mayor Julio Martinez III expresses excitement about this significant milestone: “Our city is open and leads the region in economic development with a growing population. This website is a testament to our commitment to economic growth from land to existing buildings, located in California’s most rapidly growing county.”

The website includes general information about the City of Beaumont, insight into industry availability, advantages, local data, and abundant resources for potential and existing businesses, including tax advantages, incentive programs like the Downtown Business Incentive Program, and more. A section titled “Projects and Successes” highlights reasons small businesses like the Craft Lounge and corporations Wolverine Worldwide continue to do business within our city.
